

Let's get the DEAL DONE!

At last, a deal is finally in sight to end the Birmingham bin strike.

An improved offer to end the bin strike is ready and waiting to be agreed by the newly elected council. Let's get the deal done!

UNITE FOR A WORKERS' ECONOMY

A big thank you to everyone who has supported the bin workers! The support of the people of Birmingham has been crucial in getting to this point.

And through these hard times, this solidarity has kept us all going.

Now we need to get it over the line!

It took a year and half to get a decent offer to end the bin strike out of the last council, unelected government imposed commissioners were a major block, and the local election put any chance of a resolution on hold.

Now we need the new councillors to get on board and back this fair deal!

"The commissioner model is a licence for a few unelected individuals to print money and play games. They have let the workers down, the people of Birmingham down and the council down."

SHARON GRAHAM, Unite General Secretary

We need to make sure the Commissioners get out of the way.

So now we are asking councillors to support the offer negotiated to end the bin strike in April, and finally get the deal done!
